Port of Barcelona - Spain - Ship Position (lat: 41.3727 long: 2.1783)

Port Barcelona - Port Vell -- Barcelona is one of the world's most cosmopolitan cities. Its port is the gateway for over 1,2 million cruise passengers every year.

Barcelona, with its coastal location, and its olympic Port, offers the best gateway for reaching the Mediterranean region from the sea. Among Barcelona's assets as a city with an international tourism profile and an unsurpassable leisure and cultural range of opportunities, are unbeatable port installations to make the arrival of cruise shipping easy, convenient and attractive.

The Port of Barcelona has a total of 7 terminals exclusively for cruise traffic use.

Major Cruise Lines depart from the port of Barcelona like Royal Caribbean Cruise Line (RCL), Carnival Cruise Line, Celebrity Cruises, MSC Cruises, Costa Cruises, Seabourn Cruise Line, Crystal Cruises, Oceania Cruises, Norwegian Cruise Line (NCL), Holland America Line, Princess Cruises,...

Location -- The Barcelona cruise terminal is at Port Vell in Barcelona which is at the Southern most end of the famous Ramblas. The seaport terminal is only 10 mins walk from the Ramblas. However there are several cruise terminals at the port and if you are in one of the terminals which is furthest from the Ramblas you would need to catch a shuttle bus which will take you to Monument a Colon (The memorial to Christopher Columbus) which is at the Southern most end of the Ramblas.

Time zone -- GMT + 1 (GMT + 2 from last Sunday in March to last Sunday in October)

Currency -- Euro

Language -- In Barcelona, as in the rest of Catalonia, there are two official languages, Catalan and Spanish, both coming from Latin but quite different from one another. Everybody can speak Spanish although Catalan is more commonly spoken.

Electricity -- 220V, 50Hz

Air Connections : Barcelona is served by Barcelona International Airport in the town of El Prat de Llobregat, about 3 km (2 mi) from Barcelona. It is the second-largest airport in Spain, and the largest on the Mediterranean coast. It is a main hub for Vueling Airlines and Clickair, and also a focus for Spanair, Air Europa and Iberia. The airport mainly serves domestic and European destinations, but some airlines offer destinations in Asia and the United States. The airport is connected to the city by highway, commuter train and scheduled bus service, 25-40 min. by taxi from El Prat (Barcelona Airport).

★★★★ Hotel Pulitzer - (1.7 km from Cruise Port of Barcelona)

The Hotel Pulitzer is located right in the city centre of Barcelona, just a few minutes away from the historical Ramblas, Port of Barcelona and Paseo de Gracia. It is an outstanding spot and, above all, very welcoming. Outside, it is located in the city centre of Gaudí, surrounded by culture, museums and shopping possibilities, and, inside, the black, white, rich wood, leather and glazed areas create a variety of surroundings with a welcoming and cosmopolitan atmosphere.
